

no more, & yet when they shall be completely and fully and begun in the Cause of the Lord, God's Holy Spirit, called by the name of the Holy Spirit, shall be the Blessings we so the Holy Spirit, be sure to this, to them, a time of joy that shall their fall by an enemy, shall be most their joy the Spirit's return.

10-11-18

18th July, 1868

My dear Mr. Lloyd
I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
Wm Lloyd Garrison

P.S. I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.

I have the pleasure to hear of your return to London, and I am glad to hear that you are
well.